PURSUING PEACE TOGETHER

Complex Coaching and Consulting Services

By Paul Cornwell
January 13, 2025

While all church conflict has complexity, many local church/organizational leaders find themselves involved in issues they are not equipped to handle. (Paul personally experienced the difficulty of not being adequately equipped in his pastoral ministry too.) While our knowledge of Scripture and organizational policies are normally high, that knowledge does not always translate to effectiveness in addressing the issues.

The focus of Life Impact's work has been broad involving situations like relational brokenness, leadership division, organizational misalignment, and congregational division. Many times, these situations led to splinter-groups not unlike the Apostle Paul's description of the church in Corinth. (See I Corinthians 1-4 for a review of the variety of the complexities involved there.) Most situations we have served had multiple aspects of complexity present.

Our experience over the past 22 years reveals that, for the most part, current leaders are not seen as unbiased and cannot serve as an intermediary. The challenge is compounded when the issues remain unresolved for an extended amount of time. The complexity goes even higher when leaders are involved in the issues.

Many local leaders find it difficult and for some impossible to 'pursue peace, righteousness, justice, and sanctification' in a manner acceptable to all sides of the issues. They need help. One result when help is not provided, the very things Christ calls all Christians to experience together are in jeopardy.

Paul Cornwell, founder of Life Impact Ministries, has served local churches, ministry organizations, and denominational leaders for the past 22 years (2002-2024). For 15 years (2009-2024) of his work was national in scope. Paul has provided our onsite services in 36 states including Hawaii, and outside the United States in Canada and Guatemala. We have served churches of all sizes and denominational background as well as seminaries/Christian schools, and denominational entities like Presbyteries, Executive Committees, and other governing authorities.

Situations like these are too important to ignore. There is simply too much at stake. (See Hebrews 12:14-15; Proverbs 21:3-4, 21; I Peter 5:1-3; John 17)

Complex Coaching and Consulting Services (CC&CS) is our approach to situations like these. When conditions are complex, they require an equipped, experienced and neutral guide. Life Impact Ministries is one such guide. (Check out our team's credentials: link here)

Complexity is subjective. What is complex for one person or group may not be for another. We desire to understand your view of the situation. We hope to assist you to address and resolve the unresolved issues. To do this understanding the complexities is necessary.

Initial Assessing of Complexity:

How do you determine if gaining assistance from someone outside your organization is needed? Here's a simple Yes/No Questionnaire to help you evaluate your situation:

Consider the following questions answering yes or no:

1. Have the issues been unresolved for 3 months or longer? How long?
2. Have the efforts to resolve the issues stalled, led to more tension, or been ineffective? What causational factors are in play?
3. Have non-parties (not involved in the issues) become aware of or aligned themselves with one of the individuals are groups involved in the issues? How many diverse players are involved?

¹ We are committed to respond to all inquires with 48 hours of receiving it. Most are replied to the follow business day. If this timing will not work for you, feel free to text Paul at (407) 718-8284. He will reply as quickly as his schedule allows, hopefully the same day.

4. Can you outline a path forward that would be embraced by all parties and would provide a sense of hope to all those involved as well as those impacted (non-parties) by the difficulties?

Potential Actions to Consider:

- If you answered 'yes' to 3 or 4 of these questions, please call us to discuss your situation.
- If you answered yes to 1 or 2, what would turn those yes's into no? If you can, what actions will help you address the issues? Create an actionable plan and implement it.
- Finally, would it be wise to invest an hour discussing your situation with us?

Providing Help: A Brief Description of Life Impact's CC&CS
